PROGRAM REPORT

A Report on The Constitution of INDIA and Safeguards For Minorities

The National Commission for Minorities Act, 1992, notified Muslims, Sikhs, Christians, Buddhists and Zoroastrians (Parsis) as minority communities. As per notification dated 27 January, 2014 Jains are also notified as minority community. As per Census 2001, the percentage of minorities in the country is about 18.8% (18.95 crore) of the total population of the country, of which Muslims are 13.4% (13.83 crore); Christians 2.3% (2.40 crore); Sikhs 1.9% (1.92 crore); Buddhists 0.8% (79.5 lakhs); Jains 0.4% (42.2 lakhs); and Zoroastrians (Parsis) 0.0069% (69 thousands).

The Constitution has adopted several safeguards to protect minorities in the country. Some of these rights are common to all the citizens including minorities. These rights are enshrined in the following Articles of the Constitution:

Article 14 – enshrines equality before law and equal protection of law.

Article 15 prohibits discrimination on any ground i.e. religion, race, caste, sex, place of birth.

Article 25 ensures freedom of conscience and free profession, practice and propagation of religion.

Article 26 ensures a right to manage religious institutions, religious affairs, subject to public order, morality and health.

Article 29 gives minorities a right to conserve their language, script or culture

Article 30 gives right to minorities to establish and administer educational institutions.

Article 347 allows use of minority languages for official purpose.

Article 350 (A) directs the State to provide facilities for instruction in the mother tongue at the Primary stage of education.

Article 350 (B) provides for a Special officer for linguistic minorities and his duties.

Part IV of the Constitution containing Directive Principles of State Policy includes provisions having significant implications for the minorities.

Part IV-A of the Constitution relating to Fundamental Duties, applies in full to all citizens.

RTE (AMENDMENT)ACT, 2012

The Rights of minority institutions, guaranteed under articles 29 and 30 of the Constitution, are protected while implementing the provisions of the RTE Act. The applicability of the Act shall be subject to the articles 29 and 30 of the Constitution. The RTE Act shall not apply to madarasas, vedic pathshalas and educational institutions primarily imparting religious instructions.

Outcomes:

Participants got the complete awareness about the Constitution of INDIA and Safeguards for Minorities
